Nina Meehan is an innovation, communication, and connection expert who helps organizations break through barriers and unleash brilliance.

For nearly two decades, she led and scaled an award-winning, multi-million-dollar entertainment company, reaching over a million people worldwide with creative programs and performances. Drawing on her background as a director, playwright, and CEO, Nina developed a proven system that blends creativity with strategy to help teams reimagine what's possible.

Her approach emphasizes innovation as a daily practice—teaching leaders how to spark bold ideas, adapt to change, and inspire fresh solutions in any environment. Today, her keynotes and workshops empower leaders and organizations across industries—tech, finance, education, nonprofits, and beyond—to embrace change, spark resilience, and move with confidence into the future.
